Academic focus: Computational Communication and Human–AI Communication

Education

PhD Candidate, Media and Communication 2021–May 2027 (expected)
Universiti Malaya, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences.
Thesis: Semantic Governance and Crisis Framing in China's COVID-19 Press Conferences 2020–2023.

MA, Journalism and Communication 2016–2018
Fudan University, School of Journalism.

BA, Journalism 2010–2014
Fudan University, School of Journalism.

Research Profile

My research examines public discourse, human–AI communication, and trust on digital platforms. Combining communication theory with qualitative and computational approaches, I study how platform interventions shape interaction and how institutions frame public health crises.

Themes: Human–AI interaction · Platform governance and trust · Crisis framing

Selected Research and Contributions

From Solo Post to Shared Space [J1]
ACM Transactions on Social Computing (2026). Led the research on how a public LLM agent reshapes human-to-human conversation. The study uses reply-network analysis, matching, and doubly robust estimation to examine interaction structure on a social platform.

"Fairness Labels" in Feeds [J2]
Social Media + Society (2026). Led research using an online randomized experiment to examine creators' fairness and legitimacy judgments. Responsibilities included study design, software, investigation, data curation, formal analysis, visualization, and manuscript drafting and revision.

From zero-COVID to global alignment [J5]
Globalization and Health (2025), Brief Report. Led the research examining 154 press-conference transcripts through topic modeling, frame analysis, and process tracing.

Digital duality [J6]
Information, Communication & Society (2025). Led an interview-based study of how rural housewife Douyin creators negotiate tradition, modernity, and identity.

Courses Prepared to Teach

Computational Communication · Communication Research Methods · Human–AI Communication.

Research Methods

Experimental design, data curation, software implementation, and statistical analysis [J2]; qualitative study design, interview-based investigation, and multi-source data collection [J4]; collaborative mixed-methods analysis of crisis discourse [J5].
